

Spring 2018 Health, Racism, and Communication Seminar Series

Please join us for a series of workshops on communication skills, specifically for community organizers, neighborhood groups, and public health students, professionals, faculty and researchers. These seminars are free and open to the public.

All seminars will be held at: Tulane School of Public Health & Tropical Medicine, 1440 Canal Street, New Orleans LA 70112

Light refreshments will be provided at all seminars

“When Black Women Walk, Things Change: The Story of GirlTrek”

Weds., Feb. 21, 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m., Room 1210 (12th floor)

Onika Jervis, National Director of Recruitment and Outreach, GirlTrek
Jewel Bush, National Communications Director, GirlTrek

“From Individual Responsibility to Collective Accountability: Framing Equity for Health Systems”

Weds., Feb. 28, 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m., Room 1210 (12th floor)

Joia Crear Perry, MD, FACOG, President, National Birth Equity Collaborative

“Minding Your Bias: Using Mindfulness to Promote Culturally-Responsive Research”

Weds., March 7, 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m., Room 1210 (12th floor)

Tammy Lewis Wilborn, PhD, LPC-S, LPC/MHSP-S, NCC, Visiting Assistant Professor, University of New Orleans, and Owner/Chief Clinical Officer, Wilborn Clinical Services

Sponsored by the Tulane Center of Excellence in Maternal and Child Health, Tulane Prevention Research Center, Tulane Society for Young Black Public Health Professionals, Tulane African Student Association, Tulane Society for Sexuality, Health, and Gender, and SALUD for Latin American Communities.

Questions? Contact
Naomi Englar (PRC & CEMCH)
at 504.988.7410, nking2@tulane.edu